Vienna, Jan. 2. The Arch-Duke Charles continues as well as can be expected in his condition, it being Nine days since the Small-Pox came out very kindly. An Express was sent this week to Count Marsigli the Emperor's Commissioner for settling the Limits with the Turks in Croatia, with the last Resolution of this Court concerning the Town of Novi and its Dependencies, which is, That if the Turks do insist upon the demolishing of that Place, the Emperor is willing to consent thereunto, provided he may be at liberty to build another Fortress not far from thence for the Security of his Frontiers, and that all that part of the Territory of Novi which lies on this side the River Unna, be left to the Imperialists; which Proposal 'tis thought the Turks will comply with. Hamburgh, Jan. 12.
